WHAT'S NEW AT CVAC

Just as summer is quickly making its way towards fall, CVAC is quickly growing its programs, departments, and staff. CVAC was recently awarded a grant from the Office of Victim Services to hire three new Case Workers. Each of these new staff members will be based in one of our three locations; Binghamton, Endicott, and Norwich. We have also secured a grant through the United Way that will allow us to bring aboard a case manager specifically to work within Binghamton High School. This will bring our total case worker count to seven by the end of the summer!

As a result of all of this growth, we are thrilled to announce the expansion of our services at our newest location in Endicott, CVAC West. Formally home to solely our Safe Harbor and Education departments, we will now be opening a satellite Child Advocacy Center! This additional site will have an important and beneficial impact on preventing and responding to crimes against children in both Broome and Tioga Counties. To accommodate our new staff and services, we are in the process of making some drastic renovations to our space within the St. Ambrose School. Two new offices, a private interview room and a fully functional bathroom with a shower, clothes washer and dryer will be constructed in hopes of someday having a drop-in center for at-risk youth. Stay tuned to see where we go next!

VOLUNTEER SPOTLIGHT: Krista KelseyHow long have you been volunteering for CVAC?

"I've volunteered with CVAC since the early 2000's! I took some time off from volunteering after my son was born in 2010, but I've been back with CVAC for over two years now. Goodness -- in total, it's been nearly two decades that I've worked with CVAC! And I wouldn't change a moment of how I've spent that time!"

What made you want to volunteer?

"It was CVAC's mission and the team's dedication to carrying out that mission that drew me in from the beginning. CVAC is a truly unique organization with its victim-focused approach to crime. Too often victims of crimes become forgotten statistics, but CVAC -- each worker and volunteer who help bring the vision to life -- genuinely cares about every individual as the person they are. We care to hear their stories and help them where we're able. I appreciate the opportunity to be a part of that."

What are your best qualities that help you with volunteering?

"When I was very young, my grandparents would sit me down and tell me old stories about their youth and various life experiences. I remember my grandfather often telling me during such stories that I had a gift for listening to people and making them feel like they were truly heard. One of the first things I learned when I began volunteering with CVAC is the value of listening to those who need us and making sure that they know their voice is being heard. If any quality of mine helps me to be the best volunteer I can be, I'd hope it's that 'gift' my grandfather spoke of!"
